Birch leaf spirea

Foamy, white clusters of flowers appear on this small, sun-loving native shrub. In autumn it turns amazingly vivid colours of red, orange, and yellow. One of the most drought tolerant of the genus requiring light summer water to very little. A long-lived shrub is excellent as a low hedge, or to soften spaces within a hardscape.

Spirea betulifolia Stock category Shrubs Stock subcategory Native Xeriscape

Characteristics
Average height

3 ft

Average width

3 ft

Bloom colour

White

Bloom months

June

July

Features
Attracts pollinators
Deer resistant
Foliage colour
Green
Soil type
Clay
Loamy

Sandy

Sun zone

Full sun

Water zone

Medium water